FORFEITURE OF UNIVERSITY STUDIES

Forfeiture of studies occurs when no proficiency examinations are taken for a period of eight consecutive academic years.

The payment of the all-inclusive contribution (fees) does not interrupt or postpone the forfeiture period even in the case of duly paid fees. Forfeiture is triggered when the indicated conditions are met.

A student who has completed all the teaching activities and is only in default of the final examination never forfeits his or her degree and may graduate by regularising his or her administrative position with the Registrar's Office.

NEW CAREER - REQUEST FOR RECOGNITION

A student with a forfeited career who wishes to embark on a new university course at Unimore may enrol in the new degree programme (with the reference FORFEITED Student) and may generally request recognition of the teaching activities undertaken in the career closed for forfeiture. Recognition is a discretionary act that requires the evaluation of previous careers and the approval of the Departmental Council and is governed by the Teaching Regulations of the study programmes.

For all information on applying for recognition of prior career, please refer to the dedicated information sheet at <https://www.unimore.it/en/services/procedures-how>.
